The item "Interest received on deposits," is, as you will see, a new heading in the report, and arises from the fact that during the past year the town's money has been deposited in a Trust Co., and by so doing, has increased the receipts of cash $17.88.

Mar. 11.	I have received, since my report went to printer, from A. F. Brown, on account Orrison Hewett estate to library,	$45 85

Report of the Truant Officer.

TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE :

During the past year, I have visited the manufacturies in the town and ascertained that they held the certificates required by law for such minors, under sixteen years of age, as were employed.

I have been called upon to act in about thirty-four cases of truancy, and in all but three instances, the children were either returned to school, or found to be absent for good and sufficient reasons.

It is the opinion of the truant officer that, in the majority of the cases of truancy, the parents are more to blame than the scholars, keeping their children from school for the most flimsy and absurd excuses. And he would also recommend that the town avail itself of the statutes, and adopt a code of by-laws similar to Blackstone and other towns, providing some place in town for the confinement of truants and absentees from school.

JAMES W. WIXTEAD, Truant Officer.

REMARKS.

When the present board assumed charge of the schools they found the school property in good general repair and no very extensive permanent improvements seemed called for.

A well, a long felt want (by the neighbors at least) has been driven at the Center school. The house must be at once re-shingled and an outbuilding erected. It ought also to be re-seated as the seats are old fashioned uncomfortable and inadequate.

The yards of Nos. 3 and 10 need grading around the building and a fence should be erected in front of No.3. We would further recommend a great deal of incidental repairing throughout the various school-rooms this spring, additional blackboards erected, plastering put on, and secretaries (not expensive) should be made in which to keep the books and prevent them from being injured. That a great many are injured there can be no doubt and it is the opinion of the board that the saving in books each year would more than compensate for such an outlay. It is well to economize but economy becomes a two-edged matter if carried too far. A few dollars judiciously expended in repairs now will save many times that amount later on.

The parents have shown an increased interest in the schools during the past year, as shown by the large number of visitors' names recorded on the school registers. This is a move in the right direction and we trust will be continued. Nothing gives greater stimulus to a teacher in her work than words of encouragement from the parents, and their frequent presence in the school room. And the little folks, knowing that father and mother visit their school and feel an interest in their progress will put new energy into their school work.

Among the many excellencies of our school teachers there are also a few failings for teachers are "But as other men be:" and one of the most noticeable of these is the too close connection between the text-book and the recitation. While the text-books are necessary and very good if properly used they should not be entirely depended upon. The teachers would often obtain better results if they used more originality in their work and devoted more time to that which the pupil will use in every day life and not show such an insatiate desire to instruct them in allegation, exchange, equation of payments etc., etc., before they can properly construct an English sentence, write a promissory note, or measure a load of wood.

The fact that the common schools furnish to the great majority of pupils their only means of acquiring knowledge, should be constantly kept in mind, and the greatest amount of practical instruction given.

As a whole, the schools have had a successful year, and the teachers, the committee are confident, have all tried to do their best. Why they have failed in some instances to obtain the desired result, is more from the want of thorough preparation for school work and inexperience, than from any other cause.

It is becoming more and more a recognized fact that teachers as well as lawyers, clergymen and physicians must have, in order to be successful, special training for their work. There is a science of teaching as well as a science of medicine, and other things being equal, he succeeds best who is best prepared.

One of the most important questions at issue, is the proposed supervisions of our schools. No man, or committee of men, can for one hundred dollars, afford to give the necessary time to follow the schools in their daily progress, or devote that amount of labor required to bring them to their highest degree of efficiency. As the workman, under the skilled guidance of the architect, brings to shapely beauty the shapeless mass of brick and mortar, even so the teacher, under the skilled and constant oversight of a superintendent may develop to a greater degree of intelligence, the minds committed to her care.

In conclusion, we would observe that the best our schools can do, after all, is to furnish the conditions of an education. The people who support the schools with their means, must also support them with their confidence, or the schools lose half their capability for doing good,

All of which is respectfully submitted.
